EARLY FIRE IN MANDAN CAUSE OF HEAVY LOSS

McGillie Store Adjoining
Suffers Small Loss—
Tenants Flee

Fire starting in the kitchen of the Princess cafe at 316 Main street, Mandan, at 6:30 o'clock this morning caused a blaze which entailed a loss of approximately $15,000 to $20-000.

The kitchen of the cafe was badly burned and the loss is estimated at $5,000 on the building and $7,000 on the stock.

The P. W. McGillie meat market adjoining suffered a small loss while tenants in six apartments on the second floor of the building suffered losses varying from very small to probably $1,000.

The fire is said to have started as a result of grease on the stove blazing up and igniting woodwork.
Many of the occupants of the apartments above moved all their belongings out into the Northern Pacific park, and owners then began separating them.

It only remains for the Assembly

Who is Martin Tabert about whom

James Whitfield, Wanted For

Madison Wis., May 23.—Captured in a restaurant last night, James Whitfield, sought as the slayer of Patrolman Dennis Griffin at Cleveland, O., broke away from two policemen and escaped under a shower of bullets. This city was early with searching hands until early this morning and hundreds of students of the University of Wiscon-

by automobile and on foot.

A general alarm was broadcasted through the State. With Whitfield was a woman who gave her name as she had traveled with him since his flight to Cleveland. She was locked up for questioning.

LARRY SEMON
DRAWS MILLION
A YEAR FOR 3

Chicago, May 23.—Under a contract signed Monday, Larry Semon, motion picture comedian, will receive a salary of $1,000,000 a year for a period of three years, said to be the largest individual contract ever closed in the movie world.

The three million dollar contract,
executed by Semon and by M. H.
Hoffman, general manager of the Tripart Film corporation of New York, calls for completion of six super-feature comedies within three years.

Ever since the Tabert case with its astounding charges of brutality broke in Florida, newspapermen have been battling with all sorts of obstacles.
Everything from subtle innuendo to open hostility has been encountered.

Getting pictures has been even more difficult. NEA's cameramen and investigators were discouraged on every hand—but their pictures printed herewith are the first to be sent out of that district.

All sorts of delays were encountered—including one arrest

just as the story is nearing its climax!

It was the most disastrous of Mexico's recent fires. Estimates of insurance companies placed the dam-lowest estimate was $1,000,000.

It was reported officially today that 14 bodies had been recovered and police and soldiers were searching the ruins for others. Among the known dead were Mabel Sanderson, believed to have come here from Napa, California, and Pedro Gonzales, operator of a motion picture machine in a theater, whose the fire was said to have started. The

SLOPE COUNTY
WINS $50,000
COURT ACTION

Will Recover from State Bonding Fund Because of Treasurer's Actions

JUDGMENT MODIFIED
BACKS UP TO FARMS

$25,000 Verdict Is Raised to $50,000 by the Supreme Court Here

Slope county will recover $50,000 from the State Bonding Fund because of money irregularly deposited in banks now closed by J. S. Douglass, former county treasurer, under a decision of the supreme court today, in affirming and modifying the judgment given the county by District Judge Thomas H. Pugh.

In district court Slope county was awarded a judgment of $24,675.51, which the high court increased to $50,000. The first-named sum embraced money deposited and lost after the passage by the 1921 legislature of a public depository act. The total sum embraced liability on funds in the banks at the time of taking effect of the law, and concerning which the provisions of the depository law were not met.

The court, in an opinion written by Justice Birdzell, held that "where at the time of the taking of effect of the depository law on March 8, 1921, public funds were on demand deposit
in banks which did not meet the requirements of the law, and where the deposits were allowed to remain in the non-complying banks until they failed three months afterward, the treasurer and his bondsmen are liable for the loss sustained."

Douglas retired as county treasurer of Slope county in May, 1921.
He was bonded by the State Bonding Fund for $50,000. In January, 1919, the commissioners designated the First State bank and the Slope County bank of Amidon as depositories.

The Bank of North Dakota act required deposit of public funds in that bank, but was modified by the initiated law effective December 2, 1920, excluding funds of political subdivisions from funds required to be deposited in the Bank of North Dakota. No method of choosing depositories was provided in the initiated act. The legislature, in an act effective March 8, 1921, provided that banks must be furnished by private banks equal to the highest amount on deposit.

The Slope county banks in which the county funds were deposited did not comply with the emergency measure by furnishing bonds, the court found, and they closed about June 10. Between the date of taking effect of the emergency depository act on March 8 and the expiration of Douglas' term he deposited $24-675.51, and in addition previous to March 8 he had deposited total funds of about $70,000.

The court held there was clear liability for the $24,675.51 and sustained District Judge Pugh in this regard because the banks had not furnished bonds. The court held there was liability on money in the banks at the time of taking effect of the act, because the banks did not comply with the law and furnish bonds,
and previous to March 8.

RUM RUNNERS

Shift Operation From Jersey
To Virginia Coast, Met by Coast Guard Craft

Norfolk, Va., May 23.—Rum runners who have shifted their scene of operation from the Jersey coast to the Virginia Coast faced a concentration of coast guard craft
there today.

When the rum runner Cantona,
with a cargo of liquors from Bermuda, was reported at the Norfolk coast guard office yesterday to have dropped anchor along side the Jet-tar, which has been off the Cape for several days, two other coast guard crafts were sent to join the coast guard cutter Manning. It was understood that the third coast guard vessel had been ordered from New York.

The vigilance of the Coast Guard fleet is being centered on small boats that may be attempting to reach the rum fleets anchored beyond the protecting three mile limit. Much of the liquor cargo of the Istar and the Carpona which are flying the British flag, is reported to have already been landed and distributed although agents for the runners were said to be trying to find a purchaser for 7,000 cases of liquor.

GET NEW BOND OFFER
Offer to Pay $3,100 Premium on $100,000 of Bonds Is Made in Court

Arguments were made before Judge Fred Jansons this afternoon in the petition of several local taxpayers for an injunction against the county commissioners to prevent sale of from $50,000 to $100,000 of 20-year county refunding bonds at 5 1/2 percent interest at par. The taxpayers who began the suit were
J. P. Spies, A. W. Lucas, E. A.
Hughes and H. J. Duemeland.

Judge Jansons at the conclusion of arguments of E. B. Cox, appearing for taxpayers, and E. S. Allen, county attorney, took the matter under advisement.

On the one hand Mr. Cox alleged the commissioners acted secretly and that the sale of bonds at the price they proposed to sell them would cost the county $5,000 in 20 years. He presented an affidavit of E. A. Hughes offering to purchase the bonds at 5 percent and $2,100 premium of $100,000 bonds were sold, or $1,550 if $50,000 bonds were sold.

Mr. Cox, opening his argument said the majority of the board of county commissioners members Buchman, Moynier and Swanson having taken the act acted secretly and in such manner as to induce fraud or a failure to serve the taxpayers they took an oath to serve.

He said inquiry was made by bond house representatives of the auditor, and they were told that the board would not sell bonds. This,
he said, combined with lack of notice of meeting, was evidence of secret action.

He said his legal position was that the board of county commissioners under the law had power to sell bonds without advertising for bids, but that it was their duty under their oath not to do anything that would insure to the detriment of the taxpayers.

He held that the resolution of the board to sell the bonds did not constitute a contract, and that the taxpayers asked that the commissioners be enjoined from completing the contract. He said under the law it was obligatory on the county commissioners to make a record of their actions, and that this was not done in this case. He said this was affirmative evidence of secrecy in that the auditor, Johnson, either intentionally or unintentionally was informed and informed bond buyers that the county would not sell bonds.

He filed with the court an affidavit by E. A. Hughes that on May 1, 1923 the bonds were worth at least par at 5 percent, and the offer to buy them at a premium.

He argued that an injunction could be granted when "there was abuse of discretion shown."

County Attorney Reply
That the auditor had no power or authority to go around saying what the board of commissioners would or would not do, and that the bond buyers should have gone to the commissioners. He said a legislative act requiring counties to go on a cash basis on July 1 was responsible for the decision of the commissioners to sell bonds.

He said he did not think the board should be branded as fraudulent because, he said, they had not abused their discretion far enough to have the court stay "you cannot do this."

He said that Mr. Hughes was able to buy the bonds, he might do so to win his lawsuit or he might have arrangements with other bond houses to take over the bonds.

Mr. Allen read a list of recent bond sales in the state including:
Ward county 5-1/2 percent bonds
at 101; McHenry county 5-1/2 bonds at 101; Dunn county 6 percent bonds at par; Mountrail county 5-1/2 percent bonds at 101. He said these offers were no better than the 5-1/4 percent Burleigh county bonds.

He said the court would be going a great ways under the evidence to say that the board acted fraudulently and secretly and abused discretion.

He said that if the commissioners had made a legal contract which he did not think they had, there was nothing the court could do; if they had not the commissioners could not be trusted to go ahead and make the best sale possible.

Mr. Allen said Mr. Cox had referred to "drastic action" to be taken if the court did not grant an injunction and declared this was going to be a "drastic action."

The 18th amendment to the federal constitution should be enforced of our constitution. I favor any law that enforces the amendment and that makes it effective according to its meaning. It should be enforced or repealed. Congress cannot modify the 18th amendment.

The Monitor's poll showed 23
chairmen are against modification, 8 are for modification, and 13 are noncommittal.

McGillic Store Adjoining Suffers Small Loss—Tenants Flee

Fire starting in the kitchen of the Princess cafe at 316 Main street, Mandan, at 6:30 o'clock this morning caused a blaze which entailed a loss of approximately $15,000 to $20,000.

The kitchen of the cafe was badly burned and the loss is estimated at $5,000 on the building and $7,000 on the stock.

The P. W. McGillic meat market adjoining suffered a small loss while tenants in six apartments on the second floor of the building suffered losses varying from very small to probably $1,000.

The fire is said to have started as a result of grease on the stove bluing up and igniting woodwork.

Many of the occupants of the apartments above moved all their belongings out into the Northern Pacific park, and owners then began separating them.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 23.—Martin Tabert did not die in vain. The state of Florida, shaken to its foundation with the realization that virtual slavery exists within its boundaries is cleansing its soul.

The last must go! The convict lease system must be ended! These two thoughts dominate a report just completed by a joint legislative committee investigating reported brutalities in convict camps in Florida.

It only remains for the Assembly to act.

Who is Martin Tabert about whom so much has been written? What is his story?

Tabert, 22, left his cozy little home at Munich, N. D., in the fall of 1921. He wanted to see the world.

For the past few years he had generously devoted all his time to his family, because he knew he was needed on the farm.

Things worked themselves about, however, so that a time came when he knew it would be all right to go away for a while and find out what the outside world was like.

He could have taken more money had he wished, but boyish thought suggested it would be great to work his way about the country. All went well until he came into Florida.

The labor situation was not good and he found himself without funds.

He tried to steal a ride on a train. Florida was looking for such men. He was arrested in Leon county, Fla. (Continued on Page 2)

Ever since the Tabert case with its astounding charges of brutality broke in Florida, newspapermen have been battling with all sorts of obstacles. Everything from subtle innuendo to open hostility has been encountered.

Getting pictures has been even more difficult. NEA's cameraman and investigator were discouraged on every hand—but their pictures printed herewith are the first to be sent out of that district.

All sorts of delays were encountered—including one arrest of the party.

But here are the pictures—just as the story is nearing its climax!

SLOPE COUNTY WINS $50,000 COURT ACTION

Will Recover from State Bonding Fund Because of Treasurer's Actions

JUDGMENT MODIFIED BACKS UP TO FARMS

$25,000 Verdict Is Raised to $50,000 by the Supreme Court Here

Slope county will recover $50,000 from the State Bonding Fund because of money irregularly deposited in banks now closed by J. S. Douglas, former county treasurer, under a decision of the supreme court today, in affirming and modifying the judgment given the county by District Judge Thomas H. Pugh.

In district court Slope county was awarded a judgment of $24,675.51, which the high court increased to $50,000. The first named sum embraced money deposited and lost after the passage by the 1921 legislature of a public depository act. The total sum embraced liability on funds in the banks at the time of taking effect of the law, and concerning which the provisions of the depository law were not met.

The court, in an opinion written by Justice Birdzell, held that "where at the time of the taking of effect of the depository law on March 8, 1921, public funds were on demand deposit in banks which did not meet the requirements of the law, and where the deposit was allowed to remain in the non-complying banks until they failed three months afterward, the treasurer and his bondsmen are liable for the loss sustained."

Douglas retired as county treasurer of Slope county in May, 1921. He was bonded by the State Bonding Fund for $50,000. In January, 1919, the commissioners designated the First State bank and the Slope County bank of Amidon as depositories.

The Bank of North Dakota act required deposit of public funds in that bank, but was modified by the initiated law effective December 2, 1920, excluding funds of political subdivisions from funds required to be deposited in the Bank of North Dakota. No method of choosing depositories was provided in the initiated act. The legislature, in an act effective March 8, 1921, provided that bonds must be furnished by private banks equal to the highest amount on deposit.

The Slope county banks in which the county funds were deposited did not comply with the emergency measure by furnishing bonds, the court found, and they closed about June 10. Between the date of taking effect of the emergency depository act on March 8 and the expiration of Douglas' term he deposited $24,675.51, and in addition previously to March 8 he had deposited total funds of about $70,000.

The court held there was clear liability for the $24,675.51 and sustained District Judge Pugh in this regard because the banks had not furnished bonds. The court held there was liability on money in the banks at the time of taking effect of the act, because the banks did not comply with the law and furnish bonds, and previous to March 8.

When the run runner Cartona, with a cargo of liquors from Bermuda, was reported at the Norfolk coast guard office yesterday to have dropped anchor along side the star which has been off the Cape Fear river, two other coast guard craft were sent to join the coast guard cutter Manning. It was understood that the third coast guard vessel had been ordered from New York.

The vigilance of the Coast Guard fleet is being centered on small boats that may be attempting to reach the run fleets anchored beyond the protecting three mile limit. Much of the liquor cargo of the Istar and the Carpona which are flying the British flag, is reported to have already been landed and distributed through agents for the runners were said to be trying to find a purchaser for 7,000 cases of liquor.

INJUNCTION AGAINST BOND SALE IS ASKED

Attorney For Taxpayers Protesting against Commissioners' Action Argues

GET NEW BOND OFFER Offer to Pay $3,100 Premium on $100,000 of Bonds Is Made in Court

Arguments were made before Judge Fred Jansons this afternoon in the petition of several local taxpayers for injunction against the county commissioners to prevent sale of from $50,000 to $100,000 of 20-year county refunding bonds at 5% percent interest at par.

The taxpayers who began the suit were J. P. Spies, A. W. Lucas, E. A. Hughes and H. J. Duemeland.

Judge Jansons at the conclusion of arguments of E. B. Cox, appearing for taxpayers, and E. S. Allen, county attorney, took the matter under advisement.

On the one hand Mr. Cox alleged the commissioners acted secretly and that the sale of bonds at the price they proposed to sell them would cost the county $5,000 in 20 years. He presented an affidavit of E. A. Hughes offering to purchase the bonds at net and $3,100 premium, of $100,000 bonds were sold, or $1,550 if $50,000 bonds were sold.

Mr. Cox, opening his argument said the majority of the board of county commissioners—members Bachman, Moynier and Swanson having taken the action secretly and in such manner as to indicate fraud or a failure to serve the taxpayers they took an oath to serve.

He said inquiry was made by bond house representatives of the auditor, and they were told that the board would not sell bonds. This, he said, combined with lack of notice of meeting, was evidence of secret action.

He said his legal position was that the board of county commissioners under the law had power to sell bonds without advertising for bids, but that it was their duty under their oath not to do anything that would insure to the detriment of the taxpayers.

He held that the resolution of the board to sell the bonds did not constitute a contract, and that the taxpayers asked that the commissioners be enjoined from completing the contract. He said under the law it was obligatory on the county commissioners to make a record of their actions, and that this was not done in this case. He said this was affirmative evidence of secrecy in that the auditor, Johnson, either intentionally or unintentionally was informed and informed bond buyers that the county would not sell bonds.

He filed with the court an affidavit by E. A. Hughes that on May 1, 1923 the bonds were worth at least par at 5 percent, and the offer to buy them at a premium.

He argued that an injunction could be granted when there was abuse of discretion shown.

Allen's Reply
County Attorney Allen declared that the auditor had no power or authority to go around saying what the board of commissioners would or would not do, and that the bond buyers should have gone to the commissioners. He said a legislative act requiring counties to go on a cash basis on July 1 was responsible for the decision of the commissioners to sell bonds.

He said he did not think the board should be branded as fraudulent because, he said, they had not abused their discretion far enough to have the court say "you cannot do this."

He said that Mr. Hughes was able to buy the bonds, he might do so to win his lawsuit or he might have arrangements with other bond holders to take over the bonds.

Mr. Allen read a list of recent bond sales in the state including: Ward county 5-1-2 percent bonds at 101; McHenry county 5-1-2 bonds at 101; Dunn county 6 percent bonds at par; Mountrail county 5-1-2 percent bonds at 101. He said these offers were no better than the 5-1-2 percent Burlington county bonds.

He said the court would be going a great ways under the evidence to say that the board acted fraudulently and secretly and abused discretion.

He said that if the commissioners had made a legal contract, which he did not think they had, there was nothing the court could do; if they had not the commissioners could not be trusted to go ahead and make the best sale possible.

Mr. Allen said Mr. Cox had referred to "drastic action" to be taken if the court did not grant an injunction and declared this was gononcommittal.

The 18th amendment to the federal constitution should be enforced the same as any other provision of our constitution. I favor any law that enforces the amendment and that makes it effective according to its meaning. It should be enforced or repealed. Congress cannot modify the 18th amendment."

The Monitor's poll showed 23 chairman are against modification, 8 are for modification, and 13 are noncommittal.

FIVE KILLED IN BIG SLIDE

Die When It Strikes West End
Of Tunnel In Colorado

Denver, Colo., May 22.—A gigantic snowslide sweeping down the mountain side at a terrific rate of speed, struck the west end of Tunnel Number 32 on the Denver and Salt Lake railroad between Corona and Dixie Lake, Colorado, late yesterday, killing four members of a working party and injuring two others.

The dead: Thomas J. Thom, Peter Zerkoff, Alfred Anderson, John P. Stewart.

John Thompson, foreman of the party, and William P. Pierce were injured.

The men were working on the top of the shed-clearing it of snow. The slide started high on the mountain side and engulfed the men before they could escape.

The spot where the slide occurred is well known to tourists. It is midway between Corona, known as the top of the world, because of its altitude of 11,000 feet and Dixie Lake, whose altitude is 10,680 feet. The spot is almost a level of perpetual snow. At this season of the year workmen are kept busy removing snow from the sheds so that travel over the top of the divide can go on.

TEXAS MAN ON CLAIMS BOARD

Will Succeed Justice Day of The Supreme Court

Washington, May 22.—Partial reorganization of the mixed claims commission, constituted to adjudicate war claims totaling $147,000,000 of the United States government and American citizens against Germany, was caused today by the retirement of former Justice Day of the supreme court as umpire of the commission.

Judge Edwin B. Parker of Texas, American member of the commission was appointed immediately by President Harding to succeed Mr. Day as umpire, leaving the post of American commissioner temporarily vacant.

The resignation of Mr. Day, who told the president he wished to be relieved of his duties because he believed a younger and stronger man should serve as umpire, came as the commission was beginning to consider the 12,416 claims filed. The commissioners representing the United States and Germany, respectively, Judge Parker and Dr. Wilhelm Kieselbach, already had begun hearings on the Lusitania claims. These had been presented last week by Robert C. Morris, American agent, and Marshall Morgan, counsel for the commission in charge of the Lusitania claims.

Little delay in disposal of the American claims, officials said, will result from the commissioner's personnel change. President Harding is expected to appoint a new American commissioner promptly and in the meantime the American agent, Mr. Morris and his staff will proceed with preparation of test cases for presentation to the commission.

ADMIRAL CHESTER, 79

COLONEL C. C. CULVER, 51

GROVE L. JOHNSON, 82

JUDGE WILLIAM L. KELLY, 85

By Maurice Henle
(SEA Service Writer)
St. Paul Minn.—How old must a man be before he is really old? Thousands rise to answer, "There is no age too advanced for active work."

But among the outstanding ones who voice the cry is a quietest of splendid examples.

The youngest, in the opinion of the oldest, is a mere boy—51 years. The oldest, in the opinion of the youngest, is not a bit too old—97 years.

Here are the five:

John R. Booth, 97, owner and active operator of big lumber, pulp and paper mills in Canada.

Judge William Louis Kelly, 85, who only a few days ago retired from active bench work at St. Paul Minn.

Grove L. Johnson, 82, receiver of public moneys at the Sacramento, Calif., land office.

Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, 79, who recently ended a 34-year quest, and obtained immensely valuable oil and mineral concessions in the Near East.

Colonel C. C. Culver, 51, oldest flying officer in the United States air service.

Consider the last first.

At what age does a man begin to lose his nerve as a flier?

"It all depends on the man himself, I guess," says Colonel Culver, who is still an active army pilot.

"But as to the age a man begins to slip—well, I'm only 51, so you'll have to ask someone older."

At 70, Admiral Chester didn't feel too old to consummate a 34-year-old dream, and complete the deal which gave him concessions said to be worth a billion in the Near East.

As commander of the good ship Kentucky in 1889, Chester first made the acquaintance of Turkey and the Turks.

It is this 70-year-old U. S. admiral's stroke of business genius that he to meet the combined resistance of France and England at the next Lusitania conference. And Chester, nearly 80, will defend his concessions himself.

Of our next hero, Hon. Grove L.

Johnson, now 82, one may best illustrate his opinion on the subject of age by quoting him.

He was talking with friends recently when someone recalled that Dr. David Starr Jordan once remarked, "A man doesn't begin to live until 70."

"What does Dave know about it?" demanded Johnson, "why, he's only a mere kid!"

In addition to his other duties, Johnson finds time to write for newspapers, is active in church work and conducts affairs of the Sacramento Bar association.

And, oh yes, he is the father of Senator Hiram Johnson.

Turning to Judge William Louis Kelly, 85, who just celebrated two anniversaries on the same day at St. Paul.

We find this period marked the end of the jurist's 36 years of service as judge of the Ramsey county district court of Minnesota, and the 45th anniversary of his marriage.

He's not only the oldest judge in years but in point of service, too. Eleven of the 22 judges who served with him, now are dead.

Kelly served with Sherman in the Civil war.

But he says he's still too young to learn to smoke!

The oldest of the quintet is John R. Booth, Should he live three years more, he will round out an even century.

A good many men have reached the same age, but few have been inspired with a desire to keep in the harness in the eventide of life.

There is little of the figure popularly associated with age about Booth.

Owner of 5000 square miles of timber land, every day finds him on the job, actively directing his thousands of employees.

In 1921, he formed the "John R. Booth, Limited," capitalizing it at $10,000,000 and having as directors his sons and daughters. But he still remains as active head.

"I have never secured an acre of timber from any government, except in open competition and as the highest bidder," he says.

And age?

"What is that?" he asks.

Nation Awaits Legislative Action

His choice was a $25 fine or 90 days at hard labor.

Tabert wired home for the money and his family sent him $50 by registered mail and urged him to come back. He had seen enough for his first big trip, they wrote.

But that letter never reached Martin. And because it didn't, Martin died and a whole nation was to read later on of what seemed in this age and time an impossible reality.

The letter, sent in care of the sheriff, was returned to the family, unopened. The family thereupon believed their boy had been able to leave and forgot about the matter.

In the meantime, however, Tabert was taken under guard to the lumber camp of the Putnam Lumber Company, at Clara, Fla., 60 miles away, to work out his fine.

Under existing laws, this lumber company, owned by State Senator J. J. Knabb, utilizes convict labor from several nearby counties.

A month and a half after his arrest, Tabert died in camp. The cause given was fever. Company officials assured his family in North Dakota, the lad had been given a Christian burial.

A fellow prisoner in the prison camp wrote to the Tabert family three months later, strongly intimating that Martin died under unusual circumstances. The investigation machinery then started into motion.

A long hearing followed. Witnesses by the score testified that the "whipping boss" of the camp had beaten Tabert unmercifully, because Martin was too weak to labor as fast as the boss liked throughout that particular day. To help grade the road Tabert was forced to stand knee-deep in mud and water in the treacherous swampland. It was work that only those seasoned to that part of country really could bear.

On a certain Friday night the death was called out of line just after dinner. A leather strap, three and a half feet long and some four and a half inches wide, was used, and used, men testified.

"Get down," the boss demanded. Tabert dropped to a prone position, and then blows as hard as it was possible for the "boss" to strike, rained on the lad's back, which was left a mass of pulpy welts.

After the death, it was testified by the negro who helped prepare the body for burial, a sheet was tied to the body, fastened by hand-drawn blood.

The "boss" is now under indictment, charged with murder. Sheriff of two counties probably will pay with their official heads before the investigation is completed.

Just now the question is, "Where is Tabert buried?"

Fellow convicts swore the body was dressed in cast-off clothing of a negro and put in a cheap box, which was thrown in a hole half filled with swamp water. No mound to show the spot of the grave. No stone to tell its sad story. Just smooth earth, said these witnesses.

But company officials deny this. They say three white women and a minister were present at the burial which took place in a hallowed Florida ground. This body will be exhumed soon, just after authorities down there receive a chart of Tabert's teeth, which remain the only possible means of identification.

These three women testified they sang, and that the minister asked for the peace of the soul of the departed. But they admit they did not know whom they were burying. They did not know his name. They did not know what he looked like.

North Dakota, as a state, is satisfied that Florida as a state, did not know of the conditions that made possible the death of one of the former's young and husky farm boys.

"But it must not be again," came the warning, and now on completion of the report which, when enacted into law, will abolish the whip and the convict labor system, the midwestern state congratulates the southern one and assures that instead of becoming estranged, the two will draw closer together as sisters pledged to the task of making the union a place really free for free men to live in.

WILL INSTALL BROADCASTING STATION AT "U"

Installing of a broadcasting station at the University of North Dakota is expected to be started within the next few days, according to announcement made Monday by Dr. D. R. Jenkins, professor of electrical engineering. Planning and designing work is now under way and as soon as it is completed work is to begin on the actual installing.

Plans for installing a station at the university have been under consideration for some time, the final decision being made after investigation under the auspices of the president's and business offices of the institution.

A 50 watt station is to be installed in the mechanical and electrical engineering building on the campus. It is thought that the echo-proof concert room will be placed in the Commons building, though this has not been definitely decided. The Valley Radio company of Grand Forks is working in connection with the university in installing the station.

Programs to be broadcast are to be arranged by a faculty committee of the university, J. W. Wilkerson, business manager of the school, states. Band and orchestra music, glee club and solo numbers, lectures, and story telling hours are expected to take a place on the different programs.

Broadcasting by the station is expected to be under way by July 1.

WOULD TAKE POWERS FROM HIGH COURT

Senator Ladd Proposes That
Congress Refuse Right of
Review of Laws

ON WAY TO ALASKA

Proposal that every bill passed by Congress include a clause denying the Supreme Court of the United States the right to review the act and declare it unconstitutional was advanced by Senator E. F. Ladd of North Dakota, in an address in Los Angeles recently. Senator Ladd is en route to Alaska on the U. S. Army Transport "U. S. Grant."

His speech before the City Club of Los Angeles was on the subject: "Does the Constitution or the Judiciary Act of 1875 give the U. S. Supreme Court the power to declare a law enacted by Congress invalid by reason of its conflict with the Constitution?"

The Senator said that the recent decision of the Supreme Court declaring the minimum wage law unconstitutional has thoroughly aroused public sentiment throughout the country to the end that organization after organization have gone on record protesting against the encroachment of the Supreme Court on the rights of the legislative branch of the Government.

The Senator condemned in most severe terms, the practice of the Court in usurping a power never granted by any provision of the Constitution or any statute enacted by Congress since the inception of the Government, and stated that any attempt to prove that the Constitution or statutes give such power by implication is absurd.

The Senator stated further that he was fully aware that various propositions have been advanced to mitigate this unwarranted assumption of a legislative power by the Court, but that they all have the fatal defect in this: That the proposed remedies imply that the Court has powers which do not belong to it. Among the proposed remedies are included the recall of judicial decisions; an amendment to the Constitution, or making the re-appointment of a measure by Congress final in the event that any law was declared by the Supreme Court unconstitutional; also, the proposition to require the concurrence of seven of the nine members instead of a bare majority of the members sitting, as now.

In answer to his own question: "Why resort to unnecessary, tedious and expensive procedure to obtain the necessary relief," the Senator suggested that very bill introduced in Congress should include a provision denying the Supreme Court the right to review a law passed by Congress; Congress could pass a general act denying the Court the right of review; or, Congress could repeal the Judiciary Act of 1875 which would then leave the Supreme Court original jurisdiction, only as provided for in Section 2 of Article III of the Constitution. "Cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and other consuls, and those in which a State shall be a party."

In view of all this, the Senator emphasized that it is of prime importance that the people assert their rights in demanding that their representatives in Congress insist that the coordinate branches of our Government, namely, the executive and judiciary, keep within their respective spheres as provided in the Constitution.

BRYAN LOSES ON EVOLUTION

Presbyterian General Assembly
Defeats Commoner's
Plea

Indianapolis, May 23. — William Jennings Bryan was defeated and evolutionists scored a victory yesterday when the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America, defeated the Commoner's resolution to bar schools permitting the teaching of the evolutionary hypothesis from use of church funds.

The assembly adopted a substitute resolution offered by John Willis Baer of Pasadena, which in mild terms directed synods and presbyteries to "withhold their official approval" from educational institutions "where any teaching of instruction is given which seeks to establish a materialistic evolutionary philosophy of life or which disregards or attempts to discredit the Christian faith."

The fundamentalists, under Mr. Bryan's leadership went down fighting in the most bitterly waged struggle the general assembly has seen, according to church histories, since Charles A. Briggs of Union Theological seminary was unfrocked more than 30 years ago because of his Old Testament criticisms.

Commenting on the action of the assembly in adopting a substitute resolution offered by John Willis Baer, a liberalist, Mr. Bryan charged that the assembly was controlled by a Liberal machine, and that his resolution had been steam-rolled by a group of church politicians.

The defeat of Mr. Bryan's resolution came at the end of a stormy session at which fundamentalists and liberalists at times indulged in personalities.

POISON FOUND IN CUP; NONE IN COFFEE POT

Minot, N. D., May 23.—Analysis of the coffee found in a cup on a stove in the Smith residence at Granville, N. D., shortly after John H. Smith was found dead, lying across a bed, for whose death Mrs. Ursula Smith, his divorced wife, is now charged with first degree murder, shows that the liquid contained 0.050 grams or 0.0077 grains of strychnine, according to a report by Dr. G. A. Abbott of the state university, to McHenry county officials.

State's Attorney Albert Weber of Towner has furnished this information to Attorneys E. R. Sinkler and C. B. Davis of Minot.

Expert witnesses at the preliminary hearing held at Granville last month testified that it would take about a grain of strychnine to cause death.

The analysis of the cup's liquid contents tends to bear out the defense's contention, it was declared that the poison was placed in the cup, being mixed with coffee. The defense's theory is that Smith committed suicide.

No poison was found through analysis of the contents of a coffee pot on the stove, near where the cup was sitting.

Senator Ladd Proposes That
Review of Laws

Proposal that every bill passed by Congress include a clause denying the Supreme Court of the United States the right to review the act and declare it unconstitutional was advanced by Senator E. F. Ladd of North Dakota, in an address in Los Angeles recently. Senator Ladd is en route to Alaska on the U. S. Army Transport "U. S. Grant."

His speech before the City Club of Los Angeles was on the subject: "Does the Constitution or the Judiciary Act of 1875 give the U. S. Supreme Court the power to declare a law enacted by Congress invalid by reason of its conflict with the Constitution?"

The Senator said that the recent decision of the Supreme Court declaring the minimum wage law unconstitutional has thoroughly aroused public sentiment throughout the country to the end that organization after organization have gone on record protesting against the encroachment of the Supreme Court on the rights of the legislative branch of the Government.

The Senator condemned in most severe terms the practice of the Court in usurping a power never granted by any provision of the Constitution or any statute enacted by Congress since the inception of the Government, and stated that any attempt to prove that the Constitution or statutes give such power by implication is absurd.

The Senator stated further that he was fully aware that various propositions have been advanced to mitigate this unwarranted assumption of a legislative power by the Court, but that they all have the fatal defect in this: That the proposed remedies imply that the Court has powers which do not belong to it. Among the proposed remedies are included the recall of judicial decisions; an amendment to the Constitution, or making the re-enactment of a measure by Congress final in the event that any law was declared by the Supreme Court unconstitutional; also, the proposition to require the concurrence of seven of the nine members instead of a bare majority of the members sitting, as now.

In answer to his own question—"Why resort to unnecessary, tedious and cumbersome procedure to obtain the necessary relief?" the Senator suggests that very bill introduced in Congress should include a provision denying the Supreme Court the right to review a law passed by Congress; Congress could pass a general act denying the Court the right of review; or, Congress could repeal the Judiciary Act of 1875 which would then leave the Supreme Court original jurisdiction, only as provided for in Section 2 of Article III of the Constitution, namely, "Cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and other consuls, and those in which a State shall be a party."

In view of all this, the Senator emphasized that it is of prime importance that the people assert their rights in demanding that their representatives in Congress insist that the coordinate branches of our Government, namely, the executive and judiciary, keep within their respective spheres as provided in the Constitution.

BRYAN LOSES ON EVOLUTION

Presbyterian General Assembly Defeats Commoner's Plea

Indianapolis, May 23. — William Jennings Bryan was defeated and evolutionists scored a victory yesterday when the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America, defeated the Commoner's resolution to bar schools permitting the teaching of the evolutionary hypothesis from use of church funds.

The assembly adopted a substitute resolution offered by John Willis Baer of Pasadena, which in mild terms directed synods and presbyteries to "withhold their official approval" from educational institutions "where any teaching of instruction is given which seeks to establish a materialistic evolutionary philosophy of life or which disregards or attempts to discredit the Christian faith."

The fundamentalists, under Mr. Bryan's leadership, went down fighting in the most bitterly waged struggle the general assembly has seen, according to church histories, since Charles A. Briggs of Union Theological seminary was unfrocked more than 30 years ago because of his Old Testament criticisms.

Commenting on the action of the assembly in adopting a substitute resolution offered by John Willis Baer, a liberalist, Mr. Bryan charged that the assembly was controlled by a liberal machine, and that his resolution had been steam-rolled by a group of church politicians.

The defeat of Mr. Bryan's resolution came at the end of a stormy session at which fundamentalists and liberalists at times indulged in personalities.

POISON FOUND IN CUP; NONE
IN COFFEE POT

Minot, N. D., May 23.—Analysis of the coffee found in a cup on a stove in the Smith residence at Granville, N. D., shortly after John H. Smith was found dead, lying across a bed, for whose death Mrs. Ursula Smith, his divorced wife, is now charged with first degree murder, shows that the liquid contained 0.0180 grams or 0.2777 grains of strychnine, according to a report by Dr. G. A. Abbott of the state university, to Minot county officials.

State's Attorney Albert Weber of Tower has furnished this information to Attorneys E. R. Sinkler and C. B. Davis of Minot.

Expert witnesses at the preliminary hearing held at Granville last month testified that it would take about a grain of strychnine to cause death.

The analysis of the cup's liquid contents tends to bear out the defense's contention, it was declared that the poison was placed in the cup, being mixed with coffee. The defense's theory is that Smith committed suicide.

No poison was found through analysis of the contents of a coffee pot on the stove, near where the cup was sitting.

Mrs. Smith, out under bonds of $5,000 is now at Lorraine, N. D., where she is employed as a domestic.

Nation Awaits
Legislative Action

His choice was a $25 fine or 90 days at hard labor.
Tabert wired home for the money and his family sent him $50 by registered mail and urged him to come back. He had seen enough of his first big trip, they wrote. But the letter never reached Martin. And because it didn't, Martin and a whole nation was to suffer on at what seemed in the aged time an impossible reality.
The letter, sent in care of the sheriff, was returned to the family. "The family thereupon advised that they had been told to go and forget about the matter in the meanwhile, however, Tabert taken under guard to the lumber camp of the Putnam Lumber company, at Clara, Fla., 60 miles out, to work out his fine.
Under existing laws, this lumber company, owned by State Senator I. K. Kibb, utilizes convict labor in several nearby counties. A month and a half after his arrest, Tabert died in camp. The cause was fever. Company officials used his family in North Dakota, had had been given a Christian burial.
A fellow prisoner in the prison wrote to the Tabert family months later, strongly intimating that Martin died under unusual circumstances. The investigation machinery then started into long hearing followed. Witnesses by the score testified that "whipping boys" of the camp beat Tabert unmercifully, because Martin was too weak to labor just as the boss liked throughout a particular day. To help grade road Tabert was forced to stand deep in mud and water in the treacherous swampy land. It was said that only those seasoned to that part of country really could.

On a certain Friday night the uth was called out of line just after dinner. A leather strap, three and a half feet long and some four and a half inches wide, was obtained and used, men testified.
"Get down," the boss demanded. Tabert dropped to a prone position, and then blows as hard as it is possible for the "boss" to strike, landed on the lad's back, which was fit a mass of pulpy welts.
After the death, it was testified by the negro who helped prepare the body for burial, a sheet was tied to the body, fastened by lardened blood.
The "boss" is now under indictment, charged with murder. Sheriffs of two counties probably will pay with their official heads before the investigation is completed.
Just now the question is, "Where is Tabert buried?"
Fellow convicts swore the body was dressed in cast-off clothing of a negro and put in a cheap box which was thrown in a hole half filled with swamp water. No mound to show the spot of the grave. No stone to tell its sad story. Just smooth earth, said these witnesses.
But company officials deny this. They say three white women and a minister were present at the burial which took place in a hallowed Florida ground. This body will be exhumed soon, just after authorities down there receive a chart of Tabert's teeth, which remain the only possible means of identification.
These three women testified they sang, and that the minister asked for the place of the soul of the departed. But they admit they did not know whom they were burying. They did not know his name. They did not know what he looked like.
North Dakota, as a state, is satisfied that Florida as a state, did not know of the conditions that made possible the death of one of its former's young and husky farm boys.
"But it must not be again," came a warning, and now on completion of the report which, when entered into law, will abolish the whip and the convict labor system, the southwestern state congratulates the northern one and assures that instead of becoming estranged, the two will draw closer together as they pledged to the task of making the union a place really free for free men to live in.

WILL INSTALL
BROADCASTING
STATION AT "U"

Installing of a broadcasting station at the University of North Dakota is expected to be started within the next few days, according to announcement made Monday by Dr. D. B. Jenkins, professor of electrical engineering. Planning and designing work is now under way and as soon as it is completed work is to begin on the actual installing.
Plans for installing a station at the university have been under consideration for some time, the final decision being made after investigation under the auspices of the president's and business offices of the institution.
A 50 watt station is to be installed in the mechanical and electrical engineering building on the campus. It is thought that the echo-proof concert room will be placed in the Commons building, though this has not been definitely decided. The Valley Radio company of Grand Forks is working in connection with the university in installing the station.

Programs to be broadcast are to be arranged by a faculty committee of the university, J. W. Wilkerson business manager of the school, states. Band and orchestra music, glee club and solo numbers, lectures, and story telling hours are expected to take a place on the different programs.
Broadcasting by the station is expected to be under way by July 1.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

A FILTRATION PLANT

Water consumers of Bismarck will be satisfied with nothing short of clear, palatable water, scientifically treated as necessity demands. If a modern up to date filtration plant is installed and the mud and slime eliminated from the water, it will not be necessary to treat the water until at times it becomes unpleasant to the taste and certainly hard upon the digestive organs.

With the installation of a filtration plant there can be adequate facilities for the power plant and both can be cared for at no additional cost for labor. This will mean a real saving to the consumers and give the city pure water properly treated in line with the very best scientific methods.

Those who have only the best interests of the city at heart are for the installation of an adequate water works system and will give little consideration to certain interests who oppose the filtration plant. Question always the motive before endorsing any plan that means inadequate service and a poor quality of water.

If the city goes into the business of supplying water to the people, let it do the job well and sever completely any connection with privately owned utilities or state control and supervision. That will be the cheapest in the long run.

A COUNTY AGENT

Burleigh county needs a county agent to stimulate agricultural production and promote better marketing conditions. The decisive vote registered at the recent election should leave no other course of action for the board of county commissioners than to appoint one and give this county the benefit of the federal aid enjoyed by counties operating under the system.

Farmers of the county should see to it that they are given this service now denied them especially after a majority of the voters by popular referendum said they wanted their representatives to provide them with facilities for promoting their business.

Directors of the Association of Commerce have gone on record emphatically for such an agent. It will be hard to promote dairying in the district without such assistance. The Tribune believes the farmers of the county want such a worker and they should make their wants known without delay.

LOST TRAILS

The finest pavement in the world—a Roman road built centuries ago—is discovered four feet under the earth's surface at Colchester, England.

This superb highway was put together by the tessellated or checkerboard system, like the mosaic patterns of tiles inlaid in many colors as flooring for modern bathrooms, building entrances, etc.

The design is worked out in seven colors. The tiles in places are arranged to form dragons, bulls, flowers and dolphins.

It starts you thinking about the glories of lost civilizations. Grim, but a trifle more interesting, is a skeleton found on top of this ancient pavement in England. The bones of a young woman. Why was she left there? You picture a speeding chariot, knocking her down, the driver galloping his horses ahead without stopping.

If you ever visit Peru and explore what remains of the wonderful Inca civilization destroyed by Spanish conquerors, the Inca roads would impress you most—particularly if you drive a car.

One of these roads was nearly 2000 miles long. Twenty feet wide, it stretches over the mountains, practically as good today as when it was built centuries ago. First the Inca road makers laid down huge slabs of stone. They covered this with a thick coating of bituminous cement. Time has hardened this cement into solid rock.

Describing this road, Charles J. Finger says in his book, "Lost Civilizations":

"I recall the great stone road of the vanquished people, perfectly level or gently sloping, leagues of living rock being cut for its passage, ravines filled with solid masonry, precipices carved. Nor was the road left a mere mechanical triumph. On either side there were embankments, riprapped with stone, and trees and flowers were planted."

The good roads movement started when barbarians began clearing trails through the dense jungles. Civilization has always been spurred or held back to great extent by highway conditions. And this is true now more than ever before, because congestion of population requires adequate arteries of traffic.

Our good roads movement is making rapid strides. It is really amazing when you compare with the dirt pavements of only 20 years ago.

When our civilization lies buried under the ground, future excavators may not think much of us as they unearth some of the bum pavements we have laid. However—

While we do not build our roads with the permanence of the Romans and Incas, possibly this is because we intuitively feel that it will not be many years until most of our travel will be by airplane with the "roads" in the air.

CUCKOO

With good luck, radio fans this summer may pick up a strange voice from the far north. That will be Donald B. MacMillan, famed polar explorer, aboard the good ship Bowdoin.

MacMillan is on needles and pins to learn what effect his radio will have on Eskimos. "When we showed them a regular wire phone," he says, "I found one of them at one end of the wire. He would yell and then run to the other end of the wire to try and hear the sound of his own voice."

This gives you a laugh. But we can't help wondering what the Eskimos would think of some of the equally cuckoo things we do in politics, business and our everyday lives.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY

Senator Frazier is sponsoring a scheme for the inauguration of a new Nonpartisan league daily paper, the Courier-News having passed out of the control of the management, and the league now being without a daily organ or mouthpiece. The plan proposed by the senator is that loyal leaguers shall subscribe for the proposed new paper at the rate of $5.00 per subscription, being privileged also to buy "memberships" at $5.00 each, each membership carrying with it the right to cast one vote on all matters pertaining to the control and operation of the paper. Mr. Frazier says in the circular letter on the subject which he had sent out that if 15,000 subscriptions are received at $5.00 each the paper can be published a year without any advertising. Apparently it is not expected that the advertising receipts will be large.

Senator Frazier is not a newspaper man. He has had no experience in that line of activity, and he knows nothing about it except what some one has told him. Just what told him that a daily newspaper with a circulation of 15,000 can be published for $75,000 a year we do not know, but the informant either is ignorant or has an ax of his own to grind.

Seventy-five thousand dollars is a very comfortable sum of money to have all in one bunch, but it will not deliver a daily newspaper to fifteen thousand people for a year. Of course with that sum of money one could produce a handbill or something of that sort, but we understand the senator to propose, not a handbill, but a newspaper. Simmered down to a weekly basis the senator's $75,000 amounts to about $1,500, which is not quite so impressive. As against that let there be set off the salary list for an editorial force, a composing room force, a stereotyping and a press room force, interest charges of the investment in a plant, depreciation of machinery and equipment, cost of paper, carbon after carbon, making costs, etc., and the management would be lucky to make the fifteen hundred last until Wednesday night.

The largest two papers in the state have circulations roughly corresponding to the senator's estimate. Presumably those in charge of them are trying to make them pay. Both carry fairly large lines of advertising. According to the estimate given the leaguers that advertising ought to be clear profit. It isn't, by a long shot, and it takes mighty close figuring to realize any profit at all. Before accepting the senator's estimate—which is not his, by the way—his friends would do well to recall their experience with the Grand Forks American.—Grand Forks Herald.

SCHOOL BAND

The splendid reception given the High School band by the people of Hebron and Dickinson on the occasion of the band concerts at those points Wednesday and Thursday evenings is very gratifying to the people of the city and county. The band is a splendid organization of boys and girls and is worthy of all the support our people can give it.—Beach Advance.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The Twins helped the Ragies to spring clean everything above the ground. Every house and apartment in the forest and meadow and the city were scrubbed like ship decks, and the fairy landlord, Mr. Tingling, said he had never had such an easy time renting his places for the summer.

Mrs. Bluebird and Mrs. Robin began raising their families much earlier than usual, because they did not have to waste any precious days in cleaning up. The purple martins were particularly grateful because their hotel on top of the old clothes post in Farmer Brown's dooryard was washed both outside and in.

"Well," said kind little Mister Tatters, "I do believe we have done all we can on top of the ground."

"On top of the ground?" repeated Nick. "Are there places under the ground to clean?"

Mister Tatters laughed. "Well, I should say so. Not to clean exactly, but there are other things to do. As Ragies Land is under the ground, the most important work of the Ragies is down there. What would you say if I told you that we Ragies help Farmer Brown's sassa patch garden to grow. Also his potato patch and corn patch and all the other patches."

"Do they call them patches because Ragies make them?" laughed Nancy, and everybody else laughed, too.

"May we help you in Ragies Land?" asked Nick anxiously. He liked Mister Tatters, and his little ragged fairy band and he didn't wish to leave them just yet.

"Let me see if you both still have the magic soot smudges on your noses," said Mister Tatters, squinting his eyes. "Yes, they're still there. All right, Kidnies, come along. We'll all go down the magic steps again into Ragies Land and see what we can do for Farmer Brown's crops."

So away they all trooped, dragging their brooms behind them.

LETTER FROM SALLY AHTERTON TO HER FRIEND, BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

DEAR BEE:

Someone has said that everybody tells something to everyone and if these people should get together and the things told them be summed up, it would be found that everyone has told all the secrets of her inmost heart.

Bee, I am the unhappiest woman in all the world. I do not understand why I married. (By the way, does anyone ever really understand why one marries?)

Oh yes, I know that Sam is the dearest boy in all the world and I have always known that he drank to excess, but I thought now, this prohibition was here, he could not get liquor.

I wrote you about his drinking with this boss. Well that started him, and the next night he did not come home to dinner. All night long I waited for him and, Bee, I suffered the torments of the damned.

The next day about 9 o'clock, when I had just about made up my mind to ring up the office and see if he had gotten there on time, a call came to me from the psychopathic ward of the Good Samaritan Hospital.

Sam had been taken there about 3 o'clock in the morning, absolutely paralyzed from drink. He had gotten into a hold of something that was poisonous and, Bee, I think he has lost his sight. At least at the present moment he is totally blind and I am trying to hold my job and keep him in the hospital.

Perhaps I am hard, Bee, but some way I do not feel at all like excusing or pitying Sam. He knew exactly what might happen, but like any other person who dabbles with temptation, he thought he was going to skirt around the consequences.

Everybody is always ready to apply the law of compensation to everyone else but himself.

And Bee, to make the matter worse, I had a call from Sam's boss this morning. He told me he took Sam out to luncheon especially to tell him that he thought he was drinking too much.

When I asked him if he had not offered Sam a drink at the same time that he gave the warning, without even having the grace to blush, he said, "Why, of course, I always have a cocktail or a highball with my meals, but I can afford to buy good liquor and Sam can't."

Bee, then and there I made up my mind that no man was worth one headache. Mr. White thought he was particularly generous when he said, "I will pay you Sam's salary for the next two weeks. By that time it will be definitely known whether he will recover from his blindness. Of course, if he does not he can't expect to be a pensioner on my bounty all his life as he has on his own to blame for all this trouble."

"He won't expect it, Mr. White," I said, "I hope you will excuse me now as I am leaving the house to go and see my husband at the hospital. I will tell him of your generous offer."

I suppose Leslie and her husband are perfectly happy. I wonder what terrible thing I did to engage Fate that such an unhappy lot should be sent to me.

Your despairing friend,
SALLY.

FLOWING GOLD

PRINTED BY ARABIANIST WITH NATIONALITY NUMBER SERVICE, NEW YORK

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Calvin Gray, enemy of Henry Nelson, employs several men to keep close watch of Nelson's activities in the oil fields. Gray is in love with Barbara Parker, who has a land for Nelson's Gus Briskow strikes oil in Ranger and sends Ma Briskow and daughter, Allegheny, to Dallas. He asks Gray to assist them in the selection of proper wearing apparel. Ozark, better known as Bud Briskow, son of Gus is a great admirer of Calvin Gray. Gray becomes popular in Dallas and informs his business associates that he is out to get Henry Nelson.

"Miss Good!" Calvin Gray strode forward took the girl's hand in his and drew her over the threshold. "My dear Miss Good, I have managed half the state looking for you."

"I hope I'm not interrupting. I recognized you and—" The girl turned her eyes to Henry Nelson, but at sight of his face her smile vanished. "Oh, I'm sorry!" she cried. "Let me run out."

Gray held her hands more firmly. "Never. Do you think I shall risk losing you again? Colonel Nelson and I had finished our chat and were merely exchanging pleasantries."

"Yes," Nelson managed to say. "Colonel? Are you a colonel too?" the girl inquired, and Gray bowed. "We were commissioned at the same time and place, but Colonel Nelson received his a moment earlier than I received mine, therefore he outranked me. Now then, permit me to retire while you and he—"

"Oh, there's nothing confidential about what I have to say," Gray said. "I have a quarter interest and Henry is putting down a well. I drove out there, and his driller told me it is looking good."

Gray turned a keenly inquisitive gaze upon his enemy and what he saw, or fancied he saw, gave him the thrill of a new discovery. It may have been no more than intuition on his part, but something convinced him that his acquaintance with Miss Good deeply displeased the man.

In his warmest tone he cried: "Congratulations, my dear Colonel. However badly you have fared in the Ranger district, fortune favors you here. But why only a quarter interest? You put too low a price upon your blessings. I'll better that arrangement. Why, I was ready to offer Miss Good a full half of all I have, when she played a heartless jest upon me. Run away!"

"I'll admit I was piqued. I was deeply resentful, but—"

Nelson interrupted this flow of extravagance. "Miss Good?" he said, curiously. "Why does he call you that, Bob?"

"A secret! A little game of pretense," Gray declared, hastily. "For the sake of our friendship, Colonel, don't tell her my real name and role me of the pleasure of hearing it from her own lips. Come, Miss Good! I am going to bear you away upon my arm, even at the risk of displeasing my superior officer. Ha! Lucky, the war is over. Now then, your promise."

Henry Nelson stood motionless as he watched his two callers leave the bank together, then slowly he clenched his muscular hands, and from his lips there issued an oath better left unwritten.

CHAPTER XI
A New Partnership

It was several moments after they had left the bank before "Bob" Parker could manage to slip away in edgewise, so rapid, so eager was Gray's flow of conversation, so genuine was his pleasure at again seeing her. Finally, however, she inquired curiously:

"Are you really good friends? I felt very queer, the instant after I had walked in. But—I was bursting with good news. I couldn't see Henry's face until too late. Then, it seemed to me—"

"Nelson and I are scarcely 'good' friends—we never were chummy—but we were thrown together in France and saw a lot of each other. He is a remarkably capable man and a determined fighter."

"You mustn't call me Miss Good any longer," the girl told him. "My name is Barbara Parker."

"Oh, like that!"

"I'm more generally known as 'Bob.'"

"Even better! It sounds tomboyish."

"It's not. It is to Mr. Parkerish. Father insisted on calling me that—and it stuck. He's a man's man and my being a girl was a total surprise to him. It completely upset his plans. So I did my best to remedy the mistake and learn to do and to take an interest in the things he was interested in."

"Those were—"

Miss Parker looked up from beneath her trim velvet hat and her blue eyes were defiant. "All that people like you disapprove of, all that you probably consider undignified and unladylike, such as riding roping, shooting—"

"Roping—why do you say people like me? There are no people like me."

Give Class Night Program Before Packed House

The class night program of the high school seniors was held at the Auditorium last evening before a house that was packed with spectators. Many who came late were turned away because of lack of seats. Members of the class were seated upon the platform.

The program was one of the best of its kind ever held in the city. It opened with chorus singing by the boys' glee club which was directed by Miss Elizabeth Jones. The history of the class from the time they started to school at the age of six years was reviewed by Donald Jones. This was followed by a vocal solo "Downy Mobile" by Waldo Erickson, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ruth Stanley.

The class poem, which was filled with gems of wit about members of the senior class was given by Jack Burke. The speaker was interrupted many times by the applause of the audience when a certain bit of humor particularly pleased them.

A bit of Indian tradition incorporated into the class night exercise, by the pipe of peace ceremony was carried out with dignity by Terrence Halloran, president of the senior class and Edgar Scott, president of the Junior class. This was followed by a vocal solo, "Duna" by Bayert Jacobson, accompanied on the piano by Miss Genevieve, M. Hughes.

The class prophecy, a wonderful bit of writing in which the future of the members of the class of 1923 was revealed, was presented by Joseph Knudson.

The estate of the senior class was handled by Richard Penwarden and William Ankenmann who disposed of the property of various members of the class in a class will, the contents of which they revealed to the public last night. The class night program was concluded with the singing of the class song, "Smilin' Thru" composed by Dorothy Parsons and Terrence Halloran.

The class night program of the high school seniors was held at the Auditorium last evening before a house that was packed with spectators. Many who came late were turned away because of lack of seats. Members of the class were seated upon the platform.

The program was one of the best of its kind ever held in the city. It opened with chorus singing by the Boys' Glee club which was directed by Miss Elizabeth Jones. The history of the class from the time they started to school at the age of six years was reviewed by Donald Jones. This was followed by a vocal solo "Down Mobile" by Waldo Erickson, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ruth Staley.

The class poem, which was filled with gems of wit about members of the senior class was given by Jack Burke. The speaker was interrupted many times by the applause of the audience when a certain bit of humor particularly pleased them.

A bit of Indian tradition incorporated into the class night exercises by the pipe of peace ceremony was carried out with dignity by Terrence Halloran, president of the senior class and Edgar Scott, president of the Junior class. This was followed by a vocal solo, "Duna" by Bayert Jacobson, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Genevieve M. Hughes.

The class prophecy, a wonderful bit of writing in which the future of the members of the class of 1923 was revealed, was presented by Joseph Knudson.

The estate of the senior class was handled by Richard Penwarden and William Ankenmann who disposed of the property of various members of the class in a class will, the contents of which they revealed to the public last night. The class night program was concluded with the singing of the class song, "Smilin' Thru" composed by Dorothy Parsons and Terrence Halloran.

YANKEES END SUCCESSFUL WESTERN TRIP

Best They Ever Made, With Athletics Close Behind Them as Sensation

RUTH BREAKS UP GAME

Chicago, May 23.—The New York Yankees yesterday closed their most successful western invasion since Miller Huggins became their manager and a great deal longer than that, and after resting today, as do five other American League clubs, go to Philadelphia for a tussle tomorrow with the Athletics, their nearest rivals.

Relatively the Yankees and Athletics are about on a par as 1923 sensations, for the performances of both were wholly unexpected. Connie Mack has not had as much success in the west as did Huggins but considering what was expected he accumulated as many headlines. The Athletics are advertised as the lowest priced club in the majors and the Yankees the costliest.

With a dash that brought him within one mark of the present league leadership in his specialty Babe Ruth closed the Yankee western tour breaking up a 15-inning duel with the Chicago White Sox by knocking the ball out of the park with Joe Dugan on first. The score was 3 to 1. It was the ninth straight victory for the Yankees and gave them 12 out of 13 games in the west. They won two from Cleveland, took three and lost one in Detroit, won four in St. Louis and three in Chicago. Ruth now has eight homers this year, one less than Williams of the St. Louis Browns.

The Athletics lost their second straight to Detroit, 4 to 3, and suffered the temporary loss of Sammy Hale, their third baseman, who broke a thumb in practice. Cleveland kept half a notch ahead of Detroit by scalping the hapless Boston Red Sox, 3 to 2. Washington dropped the odd game of the series.

By Billy Evans
From Willie Kamm to Howard Friegau is a difference of $100,000. Both are junior big leaguers and judging by the reports of the critics, fans and players who have seen these rookies this spring they are destined to become major league stars.

The White Sox paid $100,000 to the San Francisco club for Kamm. The St. Louis Cardinals did not pay a plugged cent for Friegau.

Friegau is already a sensation in the National League. His career reads like a fairy story but it is the truth—noting but the truth.

The kid was covering shortstop for the Steele High nine at Dayton, O., during the summer of 1919 when Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals was visiting relatives in Dayton. He accepted the invitation to see the home boys play for the high school championship. That night Rickey was in communication with Friegau's parents.

Rickey develops Friegau. Two years later Friegau served as the clubhouse boy for the Cardinals and worked out with the team as if a regular. There was a reason—Rickey wanted the youngster to familiarize himself with the ways of the big leaguers, feeling that eventually he would have a phenom for shortstop.

Last summer Rickey was convinced as to the youngster's remarkable ability and Friegau was turned over to the Syracuse club of the International League for development. A year's experience made him big league caliber.

This spring Friegau, together with Roscoe Holm of the University of Iowa, the veterans John Lavan and George Toporek were entered in the race for shortstop.

When the Cardinals opened the season against the Reds Friegau was at shortstop.

Branch Rickey loves to talk about Rogers Hornsby's success, yet he makes this statement:

"Friegau is a better ball player today than when Hornsby broke in with the Cardinals in September, 1915."

Friegau is unusual type. It will be remembered that Hornsby arrived as a shortstopper, and after playing all positions on the field finally earned a hold on second base.

There are some baseball experts who say that many kids are plucked too young. Yet Friegau was born at Dayton, O., Aug. 1, 1902, which means that he is on his way to his twenty-first birthday.

How many kids have won their way into the major league circuit at the tender age of 20?

Friegau is an unusual type for a shortstop. There have been many small fellows, as Freddie Parent, Donie Bush, Cotton Turner, Rabbit Maranville, Charley O'Leary, Dave Bancroft and others.

Friegau is just the opposite—a reproduction of Mickey Doolan when Mickey was lean and slim. The kid is one inch short of six feet, weighs 160 pounds and has an arm of steel. He had to be a jewel to shove a player of Lavan's class to the bench.

Now that Friegau has arrived, Rickey is figuring on Roscoe Holm, the Iowa University star. The Cardinals' manager feels Holm is only a year away from stardom.

Zyzanski's shoulders to the mat after one hour and 39 minutes of wrestling.

It was agreed between the matmen before the contest that should there be no fall within 90 minutes, one fall would decide the winner.

The match was a gruelling struggle with Lewis employing his deadly headlock repeatedly but the former champion broke about a dozen such holds before he gave way to it. Zyzanski followed up each break from the headlock with a toe hold, which the champion was able to wrestle himself from each time.

City held Bottineau to six hits while his team mates annexed a total of ten. The locals made four errors, while Bottineau slipped five times.

"Bing" Worner worked behind the bat in both games. Spanger, the new shortstop, got four hits out of five trips to the plate in the first game. Heister, playing third base got two safe bingles, Hennessy, first base, registered one hit, Worner two and Kinney one. The remainder of the Minot lineup consisted of Leifer left field; Oliver, center; Sterner, right, and Gunther, second base.

Leifer, the former White Sox hurler, pitched the local crew to victory in the Sunday contest and was accorded splendid support in the field and with the bat. The Minot team secured a total of 15 hits and only one bobbled was made in the field. The feature of the game was a spectacular catch in the fifth inning by Oliver, the speedy outfielder secured from Seattle, who appeared a hard drive when Bottineau had the bases loaded and two men out.

McKnight, the third baseman, arrived Saturday, too late to accompany the team to Bottineau.

SIGFRID TO COME TODAY

German Champion Wrestler To Meet Rodgers Here

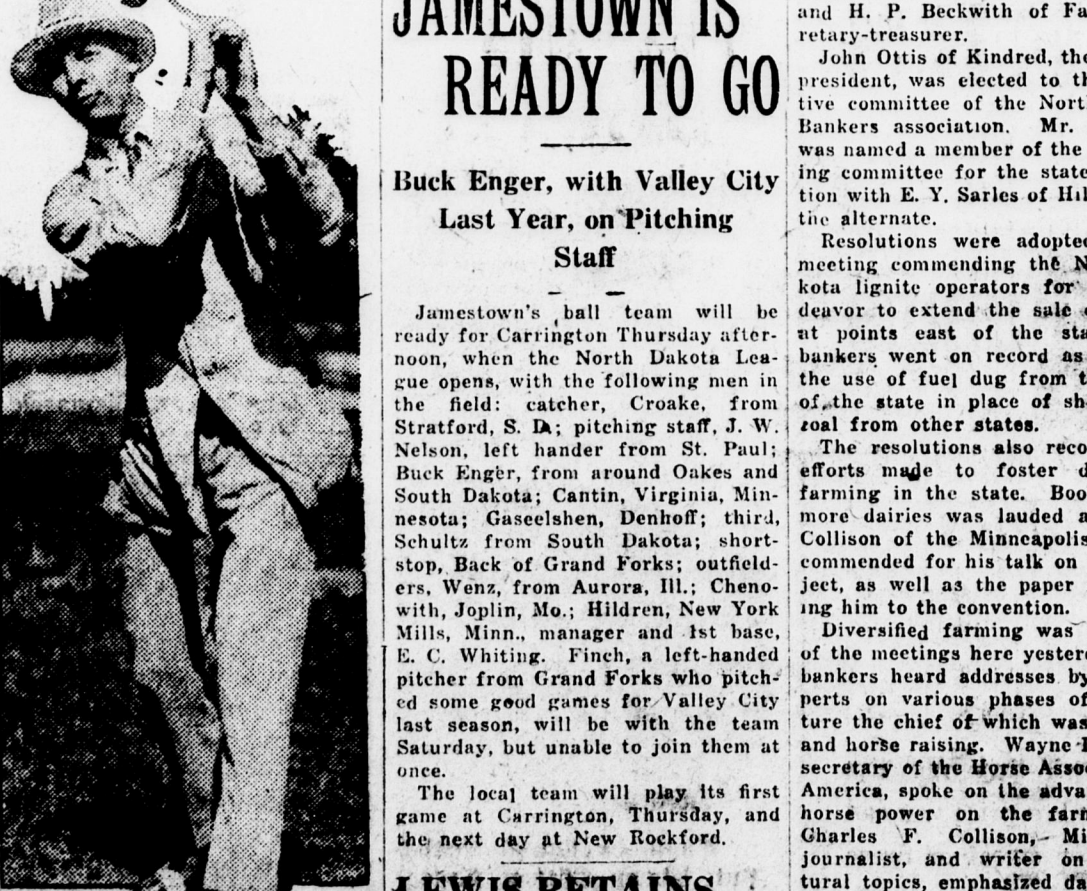

L. Sigfrid, the "German Oak," is expected in today for his wrestling match Friday night at the Rialto theater with Stanley Rodgers, North Dakota heavyweight champ. Sigfrid, who is on his way to Canada, recently wrestled Gardini, the Pacific Coast heavy, in Chicago and defeated him.

Sigfrid is a German wrestler, holds the world's championship at fireek and Roman style wrestling.

Rodgers expects a hard match, but the backers of the local boy are confident that he will be able to fell the "German Oak."

Joe Moug, Medina welter, and Thor Jensen, will furnish a boxing preliminary.

FAILURE TO FILE OATH IS FORFEITURE

Supreme Court Affirms Ousting of J. I. Cahill from Board of Administration

JUDGE COFFEY AFFIRMED

State officials who fail to file their oath of office within a specified time after appointment forfeit rights to the office, the supreme court decided here in affirming District Judge Coffey's decision declaring J. I. Cahill not entitled to a seat as member of the state board of administration. R. B. Murphy, president of the board, appointed by Governor Nestos when Cahill's place was declared vacant by office Nestos, will continue to serve out his term, ending in 1927.

The decision of the high court, which at the same time announced it would not grant a rehearing on the case in which John Bloom was ousted as fish and game commissioner for failing to file an oath, closes the two cases which attracted wide attention shortly after Governor Nestos took office after the recall election in October, 1921.

Cahill, already a member of the board, was appointed by Governor Frazier on July 1, 1921 for a six-year term on the board of administration, ending July 1, 1927. On Feb. 27, 1922, the Governor issued an order declaring Cahill's place vacant because he had not filed his oath, and Mr. Murphy was appointed. Cahill was temporarily reinstated by order of the district court of Morton county. Attorney-General Johnson brought action to have the office declared vacant. The appeal from Judge Coffey was heard by the supreme court, with District Judges Cooley and Burr sitting in place of Justices Johnson and Nuesse, disqualified. The opinion, which is unanimous, was written by Judge Cooley of Grand Forks.

Cahill's attorney maintained that the state's position that he did not file his oath was not supported by evidence, Cahill claiming that he had done so in the office of the Secretary of State. The court held the state's contentions were sustained by the evidence.

The appellant also contended that in any event the requirement that an oath of office be filed is directory only, and that failure to comply therewith did not in itself forfeit the title to the office. Cahill had been bonded by the state bonding fund.

"The legislative requirement with regard to the filing of the oath of office was not in any manner affected by the state bonding fund," Judge Cooley wrote. "That act did not relate to the oath of office, but to the manner of furnishing a surety on official bonds, and as has been noted, the law requires the oath of office to be filed as well where no bond is required to be furnished as where a bond is required."

The court continued: "There can be no mistake as to meaning of these statutes. It is difficult to understand how the legislature could more clearly have expressed its intent that the failure to take and file the required oath of office shall ipso facto create a vacancy in such office and work a forfeiture of all right to the office involved."

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL
Gladys Walton broadcasts a love letter out of an overall factory and catches an honest but wealthy blacksmith in "The Love Letter," the Universal offering at the Capitol Theatre tonight.

What happens after she is happily married, with a home and baby, and her past suddenly bobs up and threatens to wreck her own life and her husband's has been made the plot of Bradley King's original story which was conceived for the star's use.

Comedy and drama are intermingled in the picture, which was adapted to the screen by Hugh Hocman and directed by King Baggot.

Opposite the star is handsome Edward Hearn, who has been seen in many feature productions. George Cooper, one of the most promising of younger screen actors, plays the "heavy" Fontaine La Rue and Alberta Lee have other supporting roles.

In "The Love Letter," Miss Walton is called upon for stronger emotional acting than in any of her previous photodramas, though there is said to be plenty of humor. Also Baby Peggy in "Peg of the Movies."

THE ELLINGE
Said to be one of the most delightful pictures in which Marion Davies beautiful Cosmopolitan star in Paramount pictures, has ever appeared is "Adam and Eva" which comes to the Elling theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

Its scenes range from the fashionable home of a capitalist, to a farm where much of the action finally develops.

"Adam and Eva," adapted for the screen from the famous stage comedy by Guy Bolton and George Middleton, was directed by Robert G. Vignola, creator of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," also starring Miss Davies. In support of Miss Davies is an excellent cast, including such well-known players as T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, William Morris, Percy Ames, Leon Gordon, Lucille Gear, William Davidson, and Edward Douglas.

One of the most striking and beautiful scenes ever filmed in the Venetian carnival scene in "Adam and Eva." This scene brings into play all the atmosphere of Venice, including a festival barge, a fleet of six gondolas and a Venetian canal. The carnival scene was taken at the beautiful Laddin's Rock Farm, near Stamford, Conn., where the opening scenes of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" were filmed. Its construction cost more than $40,000. During the shooting of this scene, Miss Davies and her supporting players worked four "days" from sunset to sunrise, this particular action of the picture calling for nothing but night scenes.

ROTARIANS AWARD PRIZES TO STUDENTS

Gov. Nestos Makes Presentations Speeches at Luncheon

At the Rotary luncheon today at the McKenzie hotel Governor R. A. Nestos presented the four high school students winning the prizes offered by the Rotary club for the best individual debater, and the best student in economics and history.

Walter Elickson, member of the junior team composed of George Knowles and John Svengard, was awarded first prize as the best individual debater and Miss Emily Olson, member of the senior team composed of Misses Helen Crawford and Gertrude Jennings, was awarded second prize as the second best individual debater. Helen Brooks received the prize for the best student in economics and Morris Fitch the prize for the best student in history. Two copies of Edward Bok's "Americanization" and two copies of Mrs. Edith Roosevelt Robinson's book, "My Brother, Theodore Roosevelt," were presented to the students. Miss Elizabeth Jones, instructor in history and economics was also a guest at the Rotary luncheon.

In response to the short presentation speech made by Governor Nestos, each student receiving a prize replied.

E. J. Taylor gave a biographical sketch of Judge W. L. Nuesse in which he brought out in a very interesting manner the important events in the life of Judge Nuesse and the influences leading to his rise to his present high position.

S. E. Bergeson spoke on Rotary Ethics.

J. J. MacLeod concluded arrangements at the meeting for the truck events scheduled for this afternoon at the ball park. Certain Rotarians were selected to aid in conducting the contests which took place this afternoon.

Following the luncheon a group of Rotarians joined the students taking part in the athletic events in a march through the town. The various schools of the city were represented by delegations carrying flags and banners indicating the big athletic event. To the tune of band instruments the procession marched through town and passed on to the ball park.

Other visitors at the luncheon were: F. L. Thompson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Thomas B. Hull, Fargo; J. G. Diamond, Grand Forks; James L. Milroy, Minot; Dr. J. Grassick, Grand Forks, and Myron Atkinson, Bismarck.

Clean white paper, bearing no printed matter, is to be compulsory in Paris shops for wrapping meat, cheese, or any other moist food.

MISS SCOTT SPEAKS AT W. C. T. U. MEET

Discusses Mental and Physical Hygiene Before Mothers of City

HANDLE ROUTINE WORK

Miss Grace Leigh Scott of Indiana, lecturer for the Department of Social Morality of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, spoke at the Methodist church this afternoon on the importance to the community of mental as well as physical hygiene, at the opening session of the W. C. T. U. district conference.

Speaking directly to the mothers she said: "Women of America, you have a special opportunity for mankind has turned to you for wise leadership. Let us, as women, prove ourselves spiritual leaders of men, leading them through faith as well as example."

Urging mothers to become practical in dealing with their children, Miss Scott said: "You should protect your children from sordid thought on the great facts of life by teaching your sons and daughters yourselves those truths of being which they should know. Teach the boy and girl sacredness of the great life plan of continuity and there will be no possibility of early mistakes. You have the first chance. The mind of your children is yours to write upon if you will. Put there the thoughts that should be there in all their purity."

Outlining a possible means for better understanding between mothers and their children and deriding the fact that many mothers are too "timid" to speak to their children about things that they should be the first to reveal to them, Miss Scott asked: "Does your home protect the innocent thoughts or have you allowed the world to open your door for you?"

Turning to the community aspect of social morality Miss Scott said: "There is danger lest young people feel that we are trying to maintain the obsolete and antiquated ideals of the dead past. What we must all do is to show by precept and example that social purity is essential to present day happiness and the welfare of the community; that it is the only sane foundation stone upon which society and civilization can long endure. To this end, parents must give time to the affairs of their children and the frank understanding must exist between them."

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT TENDS LITTLE LOWER

Liverpool Market Is Unresponsive to Yesterday's Advance

Chicago, May 23.—Wheat averaged lower in price today during early transactions. The Liverpool market had proved unresponsive to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic and there was a lack of aggressive buying here. On the other hand selling pressure was slight, and the market easily influenced. Initial prices which varied from unchanged figures to 5-8 cents lower with July $1.17-8 to $1.18-8 and September $1.16-4 to $1.16-8 were followed by a moderate rally but then a fresh setback. Additional weakness developed owing to a dearth of export business and absence of speculative interest. The close was unsteady 1-2 to 1-4 lower with July, $1.17-2 to $1.17-8 and September, $1.15-8 to $1.16-2.

WHEAT TENDS LITTLE LOWER

Liverpool Market Is Unresponsive to Yesterday's Advance

Chicago, May 23.—Wheat averaged lower in price today during early transactions. The Liverpool market had proved unresponsive to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic and there was a lack of aggressive buying here. On the other hand selling pressure was slight, and the market easily influenced. Initial prices which varied from unchanged figures to 5-8 cents lower with July $1.17-8 and $1.18-8 and September $1.16-4 to $1.16-2 were followed by a moderate rally but then a fresh setback.

Additional weakness developed owing to a dearth of export business and absence of speculative interest. The close was unsteady 1-2 to 1-4 lower with July, $1.17-2 to $1.17-5-8 and September, $1.15-8 to $1.15-1-2.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, May 23.—Hog receipts 25,000. Uneven, steady to 10 cents lower. Top $7.55.

Top matured steers and yearlings, $10.75. Yearlings fairly numerous. Other classes steady to strong. Stockers and feeders scarce. Bulk vealers to packers $9.50 to $10.50.

Best They Ever Made, With Athletics Close Behind Them as Sensation

RUTH BREAKS UP GAME

Chicago, May 22. The New York Yankees today closed their most successful western invasion since Miller Huggins became their manager and a great deal longer than that, and after losing today, as do five other American League clubs, go to Philadelphia for a tussle tomorrow with the Athletics, their nearest rivals.

Relatively the Yankees and Athletics are about on a par as 1923 sensations, for the performances of both were wholly unexpected. Connie Mack has not had as much success in the west as did Huggins but considering what was expected he accumulated as many headlines. The Athletics are advertised as the lowest priced club in the majors and the Yankees the costliest.

With a dash that brought him within one mark of the present league leadership in his specialty Babe Ruth eluded the Yankee western trip breaking up a 15-thing duel with the Chicago White Sox by knocking the ball out of the park with Joe Dugan on first. The score was 3 to 1. It was the ninth straight victory for the Yankees and gave them 12 out of 13 games in the west. They won two from Cleveland, took three and lost one in Detroit, won four in St. Louis and three in Chicago. Ruth now has eight homers this year, one less than Williams of the St. Louis Browns.

The Athletics lost their second straight to Detroit, 1 to 3, and suffered the temporary loss of Sammy Hale, their third baseman, who broke a thumb in practice. Cleveland kept half a notch ahead of Detroit by defeating the hapless Boston Red Sox, 3 to 2. Washington dropped the odd game of the series.

The Giants continued their journey by blasting St. Louis 7 to 2 while probing by their easy pickings the Cardinals were having the fight of their lives. Pittsburgh grabbed a stronger hold on second place by again downing the Philadelphia Phillies to 6. Cy Williams, Quaker centerfielder, made his 15th homer of the season. Brooklyn clinched over Cincinnati into leadership of the second division, 9 to 6, by showing disrespect for Pete Donohue, the Red twirler, who led the league last year, Chicago defeated Boston, 8 to 2.

ROOKIE PROVES STAR IN NATIONAL
Baseball Career of Howard Frigau Reads Like Fairy Tale

From Willie Kamm to Howard Frigau is a difference of $100,000. Both are junior big leaguers and judging by the reports of the critics, fans and players who have seen these rookies this spring they are destined to become major league stars.

The White Sox paid $100,000 to the San Francisco club for Kamm. Frigau is already a sensation in the National League. His career reads like a fairy tale but it is the truth—nothing but the truth.

The kid was covering shortstop for the Steele High nine at Dayton, O., during the summer of 1919 when Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals was visiting relatives in Dayton. He accepted the invitation to see the home boys play for the high school championship. That night Rickey was in communication with Frigau's parents.

Rickey develops Frigau. Two years later Frigau served as the clubhouse boy for the Cardinals and worked out with the team as a regular. There was a reason—Frigau wanted the youngster to familiarize himself with the ways of the big leaguers, feeling that eventually he would have a phenom for shortstop.

Last summer Rickey was convinced as to the youngster's remarkable ability and Frigau was turned over to the Syracuse club of the International League for development. A year's experience made him big league caliber.

This spring Frigau, together with Roscoe Holm of the University of Iowa, the veterans John Lavan and George Toporek were entered in the race for shortstop.

When the Cardinals opened the season against the Reds Frigau was at shortstop.

Branch Rickey loves to talk about Rogers Hornsby's success, yet he makes this statement:

"Frigau is a better ball player today than when Hornsby broke in with the Cardinals in September, 1915."

Frigau is an unusual type for a shortstop. There have been many small fellows, as Freddie Parent, Donie Bush, Cotton Turner, Rabbit Maranville, Charley O'Leary, Dave Bancroft and others.

Frigau is just the opposite—a reproduction of Mickey Doolan when Mickey was lean and slim. The kid is one inch short of six feet, weighs 160 pounds and has an arm of steel. He had to be a jewel to shove a player of Lavan's class to the bench.

Now that Frigau has arrived, Rickey is figuring on Roscoe Holm, the Iowa University star. The Cardinals' manager feels Holm is only a year away from stardom.

after playing all positions on the field finally earned a tuchold on second base.

There are some baseball experts who say that many kids are plucked too young. Yet Frigau was born at Dayton, O., Aug. 1, 1902, which means that he on his way to his twenty-first birthday.

How many kids have won their way into the major league circuit at the tender age of 20?

LEWIS RETAINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Minneapolis, Minn., May 22.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, retained his title here last night when he defeated Zybysko, former champion for the only fall of the contest.

Lewis' famous headlock pinned Zybysko's shoulders to the mat after a hour and 39 minutes of wrestling.

It was agreed between the matmen before the contest that should there be no fall within 90 minutes, one fall would decide the winner.

The match was a grueling struggle with Lewis employing his deadly headlock repeatedly but the former champion broke about a dozen such holds before he gave way to it. Zybysko followed up each break from the headlock with a toe hold, which the champion was able to wrestle himself from each time.

Fargo, May 23.—J. A. Power of Leonard was elected president of the southeastern group of the North Dakota Bankers at the closing session of the annual meeting here last evening. Enoch Kitchey of Cummings was elected vice president, and H. P. Beckwith of Fargo, secretary-treasurer.

John Otis of Kindred, the retiring president, was elected to the executive committee of the North Dakota Bankers association. Mr. Beckwith was named a member of the nominating committee for the state association with E. Y. Saries of Hillsboro as the alternate.

Resolutions were adopted by the meeting commending the North Dakota lignite operators for their endeavor to extend the sale of lignite at points east of the state. The bankers went on record as favoring the use of fuel dug from the mines of the state in place of shipping in coal from other states.

The resolutions also recommended efforts made to foster diversified farming in the state. Boosting for more dairies was included and C. P. Collison of the Minneapolis Tribune commended for his talk on that subject, as well as the paper for sending him to the convention.

Diversified farming was the topic of the meetings here yesterday. The bankers heard addresses by two experts on various phases of agriculture the chief of which was dairying and horse raising. Wayne Dinamore, secretary of the Horio Association of America, spoke on the advantages of horse power on the farms, while Charles F. Collison, Minneapolis Journalist, and writer on agricultural topics, emphasized dairying as a need of the farmers of the northwest.

President John Otis of Kindred presided over the meeting. Among the prominent outside speakers was W. N. Johnson of the Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis. He outlined the work of the American Institute of Banking, which he is a member.

FAILURE TO

Supreme Court Affirms Ousting of J. I. Cahill from Board Of Administration

JUDGE COFFEY AFFIRMED

State officials who fail to file their oaths of office within a specified time after appointment forfeit rights to the office, the supreme court decided here in affirming District Judge Coffey's decision declaring J. I. Cahill not entitled to a seat as member of the state board of administration. R. B. Murphy, president of the board, appointed by Governor Nestos when Cahill's place was declared vacant by Governor Nestos, will continue to serve out his term, ending in 1927.

The decision, a high court, which at the same time announced it would not grant a rehearing on the case in which John Bloom was ousted as fish and game commissioner for failing to file an oath, closes the two cases which attracted wide attention shortly after Governor Nestos took office after the recall election in October, 1921.

Cahill, already a member of the board, was appointed by Governor Frazier on July 1, 1921 for a six-year term on the board of administration, ending July 1, 1927. On Feb. 27, 1922, the Governor issued an order declaring Cahill's place vacant because he had not filed his oath, and Mr. Murphy was appointed. Cahill was temporarily reinstated by order of the district court of Morton county. Attorney-General Johnson brought action to have the office declared vacant. The appeal from Judge Coffey was heard by the supreme court, with District Judge Coffey on the bench, in place of Justices Johnson and Nuesse, disqualified. The opinion, which is unanimous, was written by Judge Coffey of Grand Forks.

Defense Contention. Cahill's attorneys maintained that the state's position that he did not file his oath was not supported by evidence, Cahill claiming that he had done so in the office of the Secretary of State. The court held the state's contentions were sustained by the evidence.

The appellant also contended that in any event the requirement that an oath of office be filed is directory only; and that failure to comply therewith did not in itself forfeit the title to the office. Cahill had been bonded by the state bonding fund.

"The legislative requirement with regard to the filing of the oath of office was not in any manner affected by the state bonding fund," Judge Coffey wrote. "That act did not relate to the oath of office, but to the manner of furnishing surety on official bonds, and, as has been noted, the law requires the oath of office to be filed as well where no bond is required to be furnished as where a bond is required."

The court continued: "There can be no mistake as to meaning of these statutes. It is difficult to understand how the legislature could more clearly have expressed its intention than the failure to take and file the required oath of office shall ipso facto create a vacancy in such office and work a forfeiture of all right to the office involved."

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL. Gladys Walton broadcasts a love letter out of an overall factory and catches an honest-but-wealthy-blacksmith in "The Love Letter," the Universal offering at the Capitol Theatre tonight.

What happens after she is happily married, with a home and baby, and her past suddenly bobs up and threatens to wreck her own life and her husband's has been made the plot of Bradley King's original story which was conceived for the stage.

Comedy and drama are intermingled in the picture, which was adapted to the screen by Hugh Horman and directed by King Baggot.

Opposite the star is handsome Edward Hearn, who has been seen in many feature productions. George Cooper, one of the most promising of younger green actors, plays the "heavy" Fontaine La Rue and Alberta Lee have other supporting roles.

In "The Love Letter," Miss Walton is called upon for stronger emotional acting than in any of her previous photodramas, though there is said to be plenty of humor. Also Baby Peggy in "Peg of the Movies."
